

EPP LAUNCHES ITS DIALOGUE TV

20-02-2008

The European People's Party (EPP) has launched "DialogueTV", its new interactive web TV channel, which will be used to communicate with the citizens, particularly in view of the forthcoming European Election Campaign for 2009.

"We are living in an audiovisual era and the EPP wishes to use all technologies available, especially the internet, to get closer to its citizens. Our goal with DialogueTV is to improve our contact with the general public and to make our proposals, ideas and political positions more comprehensive", explained Antonio López-Istúriz, EPP Secretary General, and Luc Vandeputte, EPP Deputy Secretary General and coordinator for "DialogueTV".

DialogueTV is now online at www.dialoguetv.eu or via the EPP website at www.epp.eu - please click on the icon "DialogueTV" in the left-hand column of the homepage.

In the window that opens you will find a "Welcome" which explains how the platform works. There are many clips already available on climate change, including a High Definition film and several interesting interviews with significant personalities. Material will be added and updated regularly, but please take a look at the other themes which are "coming soon" such as Immigration, Security and Terrorism, Demographic Change, and Digital Economy.

DialogueTV is a new tool to the EPP's Newsroom on the homepage and of course You Tube, where videos on all the EPP's latest events and activities can be found.

Print