

28 April: EPP DEBATES EFFICIENT ENERGY AND SAVING IN THE BUILDING SECTOR

22-04-2008

28 April: EPP DEBATES EFFICIENT ENERGY AND SAVING IN THE BUILDING SECTOR

On 28 April the EPP is holding a policy debate on how to save energy efficiently in the housing and building sectors.

Typically, the event will be held on site at the "Living Tomorrow International" exhibition house (<http://www.livtom.com>), which aims to demonstrate the latest technologies in using clean and efficient energy in our homes, offices and daily lives.

Speakers include Wilfried Martens, EPP President, Ir. Jos Cox, Director Xella – experts in energy saving building materials, Eija-Riitta Korhola, MEP and EPP Rapporteur on Climate Change, and Philip Meyfroot, Technology & Innovation Manager at Living Tomorrow International.

This is the second follow-up meeting organized in the framework of the EPP's paper on "Combating Climate Change – our Responsibility for Future Generations", which was adopted by all EPP member parties in February in Madrid. The first debate held in March saw EU officials, EPP delegates and company representatives discuss the use of cleaner and more efficient energy technologies in the Transport sector.

Date & Time: 28 April 2008 from 10:00 to 14:00

Venue: Living Tomorrow International

Indringingsweg 1

B – 1800 Vilvoorde

Tel: 0032 2263 01 33

Note to Press:

-Journalists should request accreditation by sending an e-mail to press@epp.eu with their: name, position, media, identity card or passport number, telephone and e-mail.

-Sound recording is not permitted.

-Bus to Vilvoorde will leave at 09:15 from the EPP Headquarters. Rue du Commerce, 10. Bruxelles

For more information, please contact:

Javier Jiménez, EPP Press Officer, Tel: +32 475 480 446

 Print